

Being bilingual: the view from linguistics

Elspeth Wilson

Linguistics in schools

Trinity Linguistics Essay Prize (for year 12; deadline 1.8.2016)

<http://www.trin.cam.ac.uk/essay-prizes/linguistics>

UK Linguistics Olympiad

www.uklo.org

Babel – The Language Magazine

www.babelzine.com

Online resources

MOOCS

e.g., <http://www.hum.leidenuniv.nl/dutchstudies/actueel/free-online-linguistics-course-miracles-of-human-language.html>

Blogs

- Cam Lang Sci, a blog by graduate students in linguistics at Cambridge, aimed at the interested reader outside the field
www.camlangsci.com
- Life as a bilingual, a successful and readable blog by Prof François Grosjean and friends on all aspects of bilingualism
<http://www.psychologytoday.com/blog/life-bilingual>
- Language Log, popular among linguists with very varied contributions <http://languagelog.ldc.upenn.edu/>

Introductions to linguistics / pragmatics / bilingualism

The Cambridge Encyclopedia of Language. David Crystal. 2010.

The Stuff of Thought. Steven Pinker. 2007.

Bilingual: life and reality. François Grosjean. 2010.

Research on pragmatic competence and early bilingualism:

Siegal, M., Iozzi, L., & Surian, L. (2009). Bilingualism and conversational understanding in young children. Cognition, 110(1), 115–122.

http://eprints.whiterose.ac.uk/7929/2/Siegal_Bilingualism.pdf

Cambridge Bilingualism Network:

<https://sites.google.com/site/cambiling>